SHREYAS AGRICULTURE DEVELOPMENT & NATURAL RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

THE NATURE OF FUTURE DEPENDS ON THE FUTURE OF OUR NATURE

A steady step towards the survival of post flood scenario in conservation, management and equitable utilization of the resource trinity

The post flood periods of Kerala spread over the light of hope and survival to the people through an unwavering willpower, commitment and exact thinking about the future. Overcoming of crises was huge obstacles but the constant effort helped us to climb ashore. Partner families of Shreyas like small, marginal farmers, tribes, children, youth, senior citizens and person with disabilities were accorded massive effort for the same. The main livelihood source of the above said people are from agriculture and allied sectors. Due to the flooding and other climate change hazardous natural resources and major crop systems and other livelihood interventions have been destructed.

By acquiring new insights from the lessons of the past, we have formulated sustainable and people's participatory movements and brought the same in the heart of the people. The partner families and our institutional system and structures are being intact to bring remarkable results in natural resource management sector. Following are major interventions :

Rural employment and income are adversely affected by natural calamities like unpredictable climatic changes and flash flood, wild animal attack, fluctuation in the market, abandonment of agriculture by farmers due to the above said issues. Hence, people don't have a regular job to generate their income. The introduction of income generation programs by the Shreyas helps them to have a fixed return for low income families. Shreyas launched certain package of resources to exploit an opportunity through entrepreneurship development trainings.

Micro enterprises play an important role in employment creation and income generation. Such small scale enterprises can boost up the economy against economic crisis such as low per capita income, poverty and unemployment. Micro enterprises aim to bring about overall improvement in the quality of life of the people, through employment and income generation, skill and strengthening of livelihoods opportunities. Through the Entrepreneurship development programme Shreyas helped the beneficiaries to achieve the following sustainable development goals No poverty, Zero hunger, decent work and economic growth and Gender equality.
